SAVANNAH, Ga. - Saint Leo was the only team to remain unscathed after the final day of action at the 2008 Chatham Orthopedics Volleyball Classic, while the host Armstrong Atlantic State Pirates split matches on Saturday.

The Lions (12-0) completed their third straight undefeated weekend of tournament action with ease on Saturday, winning both of their matches by 3-0 margins. Saint Leo knocked off Flagler, 25-19, 25-15, 25-20, behind a solid team effort that saw the Lions hit .378. Michelle Nogueras recorded 25 assists, while Kaitlin McKenna hit .533 with nine kills and four blocks. Flagler was led by Justine Burkhardt's 13 kills.

Saint Leo then capped the perfect weekend with a 3-0 win over Lenoir-Rhyne, 25-10, 25-17, 25-18. The Lions hit even better against the Bears at .383 as Danielle Bletso had nine kills in 11 attempts with just one error for a .727 percentage. Lenoir-Rhyne hit just .000 for the match and was led by Lindsey Cantu's eight kills.

Flagler (10-5) rebounded from their loss to Saint Leo to defeat Florida Tech in four games, 25-23, 21-25, 25-22, 25-23, ending the Panthers' hopes of a perfect weekend. Florida Tech (11-1) picked up its third win of the weekend afterwards by knocking off Carson-Newman in four, 25-18, 22-25, 25-16, 25-22.

The host Pirates saw their losing streak stretch to four at the hands of Carson-Newman in AASU's first match of the day, losing 19-25, 25-22, 25-21, 25-23 to the Eagles. Carly Mozgai led a trio of Carson-Newman players in double digit kills with 14, to go with 13 digs, while Jessica Schachleiter added 11 and Katie Troyer tallied 10. The Pirates were led by Torrie Bevolo and Brendyce Budd, who each tallied 13 kills, and Marina Marinova's 39 assists.

AASU ended the slide by defeating Mount Olive (4-8) in the final match of the day, 25-16, 25-19, 22-25, 25-21. Michele Reminlinger hit .360 with 11 kills and five blocks to lead the Pirates (8-4) offensively, while Brendyce Budd added 21 digs and Casey Howett chipped in 20. Mount Olive was led by Alicia Mote's 13 kills, Racey Bartley's 10 kills and Mallory Peavler's 25 digs.

Rollins won twice on Saturday to finish the tournament with a 3-1 mark. The Tars defeated Mount Olive 25-18, 25-14, 25-17, and also took out Lenoir-Rhyne 25-18, 25-23, 25-23.

The Pirates return to action on Tuesday, September 16, with a 6:30 p.m. match at Clark Atlanta.
